United Way and WSKG-TV present video, discussion on domestic violence

(Vestal, NY)— In observance of Domestic Violence Awareness Month, United Way of Broome County and WSKG-TV, in cooperation with the Family Violence Prevention Council, are presenting a free screening and discussion of a Penn State Public Broadcasting video released this year, “Telling Amy’s Story”, a documentary presenting a case history of a domestic violence homicide in State College, Pa. The presentation will be at 6:30 p.m., Thurs., Oct.28, at the WSKG Studios, 601 Gates Road in Vestal.

A panel discussion of the issues raised in the video will following the screening, with representatives of Crimes Victims Assistance Center, the Endicott Police Department, Family and Children’s Society, Family Violence Prevention Council, and SOS Shelter participating. Crystal Sarakas of WSKG will moderate the discussion.

As seating will be limited at the screening, those interested in attending should e-mail Roe Skryp at reservations@uwbroome.org or telephone her at (607) 240-2000 no later than Mon., Oct. 25.
